PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

SATURDAY, JUNE 26, 1875.

There is to be an important convention at Raleigh, N. C., on the 15th of July next. It will be a Cotton Congress, to be composed of men representing the cotton-growing portions of the United States. All agricultural societies in the South, and all State and local granges, are expected to send delegates, and the proceedings cannot fail to be highly interesting. Although cotton may not really be king as it was once declared to be, in the sense of an absolute monarch, it exerts a powerful influence in the nation, and there are no more important questions than those connected with the growth and transportation and manufacture of cotton. These questions will be considered, in the Congress at Raleigh, by men whose experience and ability qualify them for their proper discussion, and it may be expected that a great deal of light will be thrown upon some very important subjects. The question of increased production will naturally arise, in its two aspects—whether increased production will pay, and how it can best be secured. The labor problem must enter largely into the discussion of the question, and some highly valuable information ought to be deduced in this connection.

If the Hindoo woman is as faithful to her husband as she is to her memory she must be the model wife. Since England has governed India every effort has been made to abolish the suttee, but the Hindoo widow has proved stubborn, frequently aiding friends and relatives in efforts to avoid attention and accomplish what is simply suicide by the most painful method imaginable. The latest mails bring intelligence of a suttee occurring in a small village near Lucknow. The widow, having bathed and dressed, went to the burning place and seated herself upon a pile of miscellaneous combustible stuff with her head of her deceased husband in her lap. Wood was scarce in the neighborhood and the whole pile was covered with straw, which was fired. The officials, getting word of the affair, made all haste to reach the scene of the tragedy in time to rescue the widow, but arrived in time to find only a heap of ashes. It is satisfactory to note the fact that no less than twenty-four people were arrested upon the charge of having been, directly or indirectly, guilty of murder. Widows faithful enough to burn themselves for one husband are worthy of being saved to comfort another.

THE southern newspapers are still full of Bunker Hill. "May the impressions of the day be enduring and contribute to the lasting peace, harmony and endurance of the Union," exclaims the Richmond Dispatch. "Not without reason," remarks the Richmond Enquirer, "have we had our quarrel—quarrel pregnant with ultimate good—and not without still stronger reasons are the great claims of fraternity now urged, and prayers for the perpetuity of the Union offered, in all sections of the land." Not much of the virus of rebellion in that sort of talk! "We do not envy the man," says the Richmond Virginian, "who is at the South or at the North, who can be insensible or indifferent to this great and universal patriotic awakening; much less do we envy him, if there be such a man, who is so perverse and so un-American as to mock at it." And these utterances are taken from the press of a single southern city, and that city but lately the capital of the confederacy.

THERE is a great deal of practical Christian benevolence and kindness in the country, going hand in hand with its corruptions, crimes and miseries. From the reports of the leading national benevolent and religious societies and institutions having their headquarters in New York, it appears that their total receipts last year aggregated $6,265,075, while the contributions to the principal local charities reached two-and-a-half millions more. When it is considered that almost every city and town in the country has several institutions of like character supported chiefly by the voluntary contributions of the people, the magnitude of the grand sum total annually expended in this way may be imagined. It is a big mark on the credit side of our human nature.

TEACHERS' SALARIES IN BELMONT COUNTY.—Teachers of the high schools of Belmont county, Ohio, receive an average of $97 for males and $84 for females. In the primary rooms of graded schools an average of $45 for males and $37 for females, and in sub-division schools an average of $40 for males and $29 for females. Superintendents of schools are paid as follows: Barnesville, $1,200; Bellaire, $1,200; Bridgeport, $1,100; Martins Ferry, $1,375; St. Clairsville, $1,500.

THE great fight in New York state politics, next fall, will be for the control of the Senate—now republican. The Utica Herald thinks the republicans can "lose the state much easier than they can gain it," and that without "radical change" in the tone of some of the party leaders, they are beaten before they go into the canvass.

THREE years ago a company of English capitalists offered $1,500,000 for the Sullivan farm in Ford county, Ill. The same property has since passed into the possession of the Hon. Hiram Sibley, of Rochester, N. Y., who values his interest at $500,000.

THE Supreme Court of Indiana has just decided that colored children must be allowed to attend public schools in any district of the State, provided no separate school for their education is furnished.

THE Pittsburgh, Washington and Baltimore Road is averaging 37 cars of coal oil, and 19 cars of merchandise per day, through freight East from Pittsburgh.

THE Hot Springs Railroad, Arkansas, will be one of the best equipped narrow gauge railroads in the United States. The road will be in operation by August 15th, and will save travelers to the Hot Springs a stage ride of twenty-five miles. The cars are to have Miller platforms and Westinghouse air brakes. The locomotives will be furnished by Porter, Bell & Co. of Pittsburgh, and be capable of a much higher speed than the best passenger trains on wide gauge roads.

It was Heatherington's (Bellaire) Cornet Band that made the music at the College Commencement last week and in town on their way through. They have the reputation of making the best music to be had, and are certainly well drilled.

The Late Alexander Campbell.

[From the N. Y. Tribune of Thursday.]

A general informal convocation of the leaders of the large sect known as the Campbellites or Disciples of Christ took place last week in Kentucky, West Virginia, the most being the founder of a state of their founder, Alexander Campbell, and a discourse upon his life and work by Judge Jeremiah Black, of Pennsylvania. The selection of the orator was a wise one, Judge Black and Bishop Campbell being alike prominent types of a class of Western men, who unfortunately is fast dying out; men of exceptional size and endurance in both body and mind; of shrewd insight and stern integrity; who made bold grasps at truth and then forever after defended their opinions with an obstinate, downright force which belonged to their Irish blood and Western training.

Alexander Campbell had all the instincts and qualities of a military leader; fate made him a scholar and a polemical scholar, and the result may easily be guessed. He became, as many men become in the West, the founder of a new sect; and not satisfied with the executive work and contests which this position entailed upon him, he incessantly sought occasion to defend orthodox Christianity, or Protestantism, against all comers. His public debates with Owen Brown, Joseph A. Rogers, and others, became in the eyes of the people, and in the eyes of the Campbellites, the most important of his life. His Scotch thoroughness made him a profound scholar in his own line of research; he was undoubtedly one of the best philologists the country has produced, while the same sincerity and simplicity to which he was devoted, made him a man of great moral force and a leader of the Scotch and Scotch-American churches in Great Britain and Australia. Probably there is no other sect, which in proportion to its size, can boast of a larger number of colleges or of publications devoted to its interests.

The Church of the Disciples also bears strongly the impress of the peculiar life of its founder. Its members are apt to be logical, argumentative Christians; each individual being driven to the Bible for his doctrines, an exceptional familiarity with Holy Writ is the rule among them; and as there is necessarily a great diversity in these doctrines, each believer is ready to defend the peculiar faith that is in him at the shortest notice. Religious training of this kind is an education in itself, which fact offers an explanation of the exceptionally small number of illiterate members of the sect.

No man of his time, probably, exerted a more direct or powerful personal influence than Alexander Campbell; and now that he is silent forever it seems but fit, even at this late date, that his disciples and friends should have assembled at his old home to do him honor.

A Military Drill in the Presence of the West Virginia Editorial Association. From the Elkhorn Gazette. On last Thursday, after the Jacob Zouaves had been drilled before the members of the Editorial Association, Colonel O'Brien, of Wheeling, delivered a short address. During the course of his excellent remarks, he called attention to the fact that this volunteer company had paid all their own expenses, even to furnishing their own uniforms. The company can only secure arms by purchasing them, themselves. All of this injustice arises from the fact that no law exists providing for the State's paying the expenses attending the formation of volunteer companies.

It is clear that this matter should be remedied. The State needs, at least, a few companies which can be called out in cases of necessity which may arise at any time, such as a riot, for instance. We believe that only three companies exist in this State. All they have accomplished, has been by their own individual efforts, and they are not subject, as we are informed, to the Governor's order. No doubt the companies would cheerfully respond to any call made upon them, yet it is asking too much from them. That they should pay all expenses, equip themselves and fight for glory, is a demand beyond the bounds of reason.

Therefore we hope that the West Virginia Legislature will attend to this matter. Let provision be made for arming the Jacob Zouaves, and a few other companies should also be organized, uniformed and armed. We hope that action may be taken in this matter at an early day.

Connellsville Coal and Coke Trade.

The coal shipments over the Pittsburgh, Washington and Baltimore road are increasing every day, and out of 3,525 coke ovens in the Connellsville district, but very few are cold, and still the demand for coke is in excess of the production. The average shipment east over this road is 131 cars per day, and to Pittsburgh, for family use and local trade, 33 per day. The shipments of coke east average 27 cars per day, and 19 to Pittsburgh for local trade. All the works on the Fayette branch are running full. The coke trade certainly looks brighter than it has for many months, and the operators are greatly encouraged. Most of this coke is being shipped over the Pittsburgh, Washington and Baltimore road via Cumberland. The Fayette branch contributes largely to the revenue yield of the road, in the large shipments of iron, ore, lumber, stone, bark, stock, brick, etc., etc.—Pittsburgh Telegraph.

The Crops in the Kanawha Valley.

[From the Charleston Chronicle.] It is generally acknowledged that there is a good prospect for crops in all this part of West Virginia. The new crop is backward but promises well now since the late rains, and there is an unusual quantity of land planted with corn this year. Wheat is not bad; oats good as usual and the tobacco is doing well. Fruit that blossomed late is doing well. In some places there is an abundance, and it is thought there will be a fair crop of peaches and apples. The potato bug is not so destructive as was feared, and that crop will not be mangled, though less ground than usual is planted to potatoes.

FRIED POTATOES.—The following is said to be all there is of the cook's secret for producing those world renowned potatoes served at Saratoga Springs every summer: Peel good-sized potatoes, and slice them as evenly as possible; drop them into ice water. Have a little lard, or for fried cakes, the very same. Put a few at a time into a towel, shake them about to dry them, and then drop into the hot lard. Stir them occasionally; and when of a light brown, take them out with a skimmer. If properly done, they will not be at all greasy, but crisp without, and mealy within.

DR. JAMES ALEXANDER, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian Church, has been lying seriously ill for some days. His disease is of a very painful nature, and he suffers a great deal. The Doctor is an old man, and it is feared he cannot survive his affliction. He is receiving the attention of the best medical skill.—Monroeville Reporter.

A MILWAUKEE chap kissed his girl about forty times right straight ahead, and when he stopped the tears came from her eyes, and she said in a sad tone of voice: "Ah! John, I fear you have ceased to love me." "No, I haven't," replied John, "but I must breathe."

In Philadelphia the whole edition of a primer was published containing the following ludicrous mistake, in consequence of the omission of the letter c: "When the last trumpet sounds, We shall not all die. But we shall all be changed. In the twinkling of an eye."

THE potato bug hereabout is a fizzle this season after having induced the druggists to lay in large stores of Paris Green, for which there will not properly, now, be a market. Truly, an evil-minded bug it is.
